

Department of History and Social Studies Education
Statement on Research and Creative Activity

The Department of History and Social Studies Education is committed to a professional profile in which we define ourselves as Scholars in the Classroom. Accordingly, we pursue rigorous personal research agendas whereby the quality of our work is demonstrated through publication in referred professional books and journals; presentations at recognized conferences and other forums in our individual fields; invited presentations before our colleagues and in the wider community.

Our scholarship informs and is infused in our individual teaching and across our wider curriculum. We truly demonstrate ourselves to be Scholars in the Classroom when we encourage our love of scholarship among our students and help to mentor them in their first research and creative efforts.
